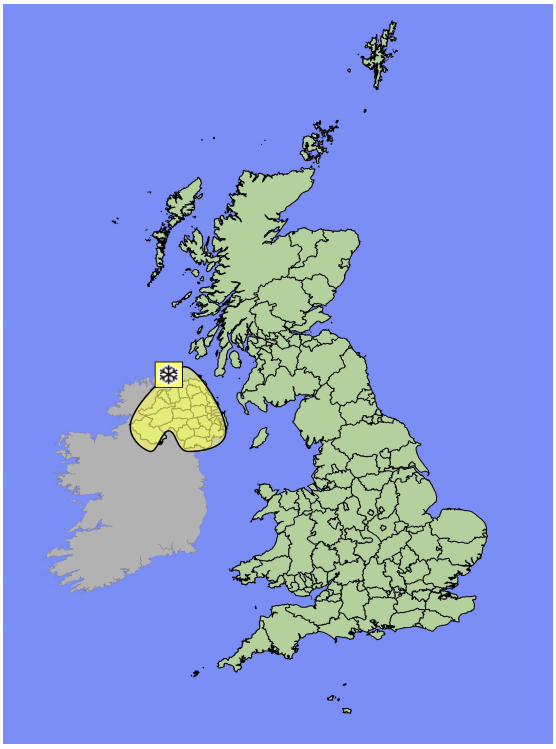
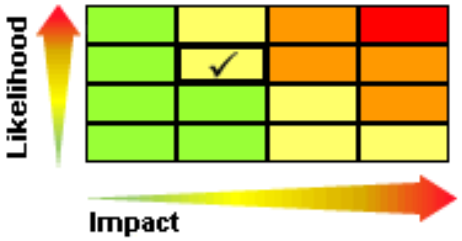
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A very cold easterly airstream will continue to bring wintry showers across much of Northern Ireland. Low lying coastal areas in the east are likely to see only rain or sleet for much of the time with 1-2 cm of snow possible locally. Further inland 2 to 5 cm of snow may accumulate, and on higher ground above 200 m perhaps up to 10 cm.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow

Valid from 00:05 on Mon, 21st Jan 2013 until 23:59 on Mon, 21st Jan 2013

More persistent outbreaks of rain, sleet and snow will develop from the early hours of Monday. Slight falls are likely in places on low ground with some moderate falls on high ground. Ice may also affect some roads. The public should be aware of the risk of disruption to travel.
